Re: Petition for Reconsideration: Development of Competition and Diversity in Video Programming Distribution and Carriage

cost of providing programming to home satellite dish distributors without further evidence and comment.

CFA shares the concerns of NRTC. While the Commission did an admirable job in the initial rulemaking in this docket, these three issues present serious concerns for achieving Congress' intent of greater diversity and competition in the video marketplace.

For the foregoing reasons, CFA supports NRTC's call for reconsideration of the aforementioned aspects of the program access rules and urges the Commission to commence
